

CLINCOLN CHAUTAUQUA WEEK

COME AND BRING THE FAMILY GREAT GALA TIME

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

YOUR COUNTRY'S CALL.

The Government sale of Liberty Bonds ends tomorrow morning, June fifteenth. Germany and Austria are reporting the Loan a failure. We have received a telegram from W. R. Compton, Chairman of the Central Committee of the Liberty Loan Organization, St. Louis, indicating that the desired goal of eighty-four million dollars for the Eighth Federal Reserve District, in which our county is located, is short of the mark.

We are rich as compared to some other sections of the country and if we fail the chances are strong for an average failure throughout America. What shall we do? We appeal to you, readers of the Kentuckian. Shall our enemies say we are not behind our Government? Shall we discourage our Government and our beloved sons who are ready and willing to sacrifice their lives for the protection of our homes? Shall we protect them with food, clothing, arms and munitions of war? Shall we build ships to carry them supplies, the products of our farms and factories, or are we to sit idly by and say we are not willing to even make an investment in a Government bond that they may live, that our homes may be protected? Will you people of Christian county pay for your share of this war solely by a tax on your income, for the Government must and will have the money in some manner, or will you buy a Liberty Bond—the safest security on earth—and aid in financing our nation in this manner? Will you run the risk of a foreign invader extracting a war indemnity equal to half the value of your property, your farm, your city home, reducing many to abject poverty because you are not willing now to buy a Liberty Bond?

Awaken, people of Christian county! Your Country calls for your financial aid. Remember subscriptions must be on file not later than Friday morning, June fifteenth.

They've got the Kaiser's brother-in-law off his throne. Now for the Kaiser.

German papers continue to discuss the possibility that the British may attempt an invasion through Holland.

This is the birthday of the editor of the Kentuckian and also the anniversary of Old Glory. The flag is not as young as the editor.

STILL $150,000 UNDER QUOTA

Bond Subscription Committees Have Much Work To Do Yet.

TUESDAY'S BIG DRIVE

Netted Many Thousands But Not Enough Were Taken.

In the whirlwind campaign from 10 to 12 Tuesday, the Liberty bond subscriptions were materially added to and the total brought up to about $250,000 in Christian county. This is $150,000 short of the amount asked for. The soliciting was continued yesterday, but not with the desired success. Many of those most able to subscribe are the hardest to arouse.

The various committees met Tuesday night and reported the progress made. During the drive business houses generally closed, even the banks. The Lincoln Chautauqua people helped energetically. Mrs. Charters, the lady advance agent, who has been here for several days, took subscriptions for $1,500 worth. Messrs. Beatty and Gass, two of the young men, volunteered and worked hard, raising $8,600.

Many women were liberal subscribers, taking a lively and patriotic interest in the success of the subscription.

The colored people organized and working among their own people made a good report. N. W. Kirkpatrick took $5,000 and the following subscribed $50 each:

Rev. E. Williams, E. S. Foreman, Ned Turner, C. W. Merriweather, H. S. Smith, Dr. J. S. May, W. M. Tyler, Walter Robinson, Jake W. Williams, Peter Postell, Clarence Babbage and K. R. Massye.

Final appeals are to be made to-day and to-morrow, Friday being the last day.

Much is yet to be done.

GRAND JURY ADJOURNS

After a Busy Sitting of Seven Days, But Only 28 Indictments Were Found.

The grand jury made its final report Tuesday evening and, after returning another batch of indictments, was finally discharged. It proved to be a working body and dispatched business rapidly. Only 28 indictments were returned in seven days.

Only one of the last batch was important. James Hill was indicted for willful murder in killing W. S. Sims last spring. Most of the new cases have been set for the last week of court. One civil suit was tried Tuesday. W. H. Butler, who sued the T. C. R. R. for damages, was given $75.

SOLDIER TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

Sheriff in Louisville With Warrant for Coyer, Accused By Mother of Girl.

Louisville, June 13.—Bringing with him a warrant for the arrest of John Coyer, 22, member of C. Company of the First Kentucky Infantry, charging the soldier with the murder of Lula Viers, 19, Sheriff O. H. Stumba, of Floyd county, arrived in Louisville Saturday night and returned with Coyer.

The body of Lula Viers was discovered in the Ohio river at Ironton late Tuesday night. Mrs. Lotie Viers, the girl's mother, of Prestonburg, hurried to Ironton and identified the body. She immediately went before the authorities and made charges against Coyer.

The body was held down with an eighteen pound weight. Coyer is a resident of Auxier, Ky., and there still is a charge against him in the Prestonburg courts of seduction. Mrs. Viers told the Ironton officers that her daughter was the mother of a child at the age of 16.

She alleges that several weeks ago Coyer and her daughter left Prestonburg together and that Coyer returned alone, telling her she "would never see Lula again."

REUNION FUND PUT IN BONDS

Ferrell's Boys Show Their Patriotism In Substantial Way.

The organization of Ferrell's Boys, pupils of Ferrell's High School from 1873 to 1903, had left over from the Reunion of last year a balance of something less than $400, which has been invested in Liberty Bonds. A few of the local members agreed to supply enough to make up the amount lacking to get two bonds.

It has been decided by the Executive Committee not to have the annual reunion August 10 and 11. Notices will shortly be sent out to this effect. Col. Logan Feland, Lieut. L. B. Flack, E. L. Cary, of the U. S. Navy, and others are in the service and many have sons who are soldiers or sailors. It has been thought best to buy bonds with the money that would be needed to hold a reunion this year. Among the Boys who have sons in the army is Jacob H. Cohn, of Lawrence, Kan. Chiles M. Ferrell, of Richmond, Va., has a son who is an officer in the navy. Two sons of Prof. F. T. Glasgow have entered the service. Probably a hundred or more young men, sons of the older Boys, are registered for service. Scores of the Boys have invested in Liberty Bonds.

October cotton reached 25 cents Tuesday.

PARLETTE THE LECTURER

Outline of the Attractions From Day to Day This Week.

Yesterday was the opening of the great Lincoln Chautauqua. The program was snappy with many novelties and unusual variety in the numbers.

DR. WALTERS TO RETIRE

As Pastor of The Ninth Street Christian Church.

It is with deep regret that the people of Hopkinsville will receive the news that Rev. F. F. Walters will leave our midst. At a meeting of the official board held Monday night, Mr. Walters asked leave to withdraw from the pastorate of the Ninth Street Christian church.

Mrs. Walters is the only child of her parents and her father, who is 80 years old, has recently undergone several severe operations for facial cancer. His critical condition made it necessary for Mrs. Walters to be near him. Mr. Walters some time ago presented the matter before the Elders, requesting their permission to close with June.

Mr. Walters said: "I do not come before you with a cold, formal resignation. As a brother who loves you and this church dearly, I ask to be relieved from the local church work. Any good minister can lead you brethren forward into larger success. You have given me loyal and continuous support. I have never known the feeling and spirit to be better throughout a church than how prevails."

The church will accept his withdrawal.

COL. LOGAN FELAND IN FRANCE.

ALEXANDER IS NAMED TO RULE

Pro-German King Leaves His Scepter to His Youngest Son, Alexander.

JONNART FORCED CLIMAX

Crown Prince Friendly to the Germans, Eliminated by Powers' Orders.

King Constantine of Greece has abdicated his throne in favor of his second son, Prince Alexander, and with Crown Prince George is to leave Greece.

The abdication is made on the demand of the entente powers, and thus ends the anomalous situation which long has existed in Greece because of the refusal of Constantine and his followers to acquiesce in full to the demands of the entente allies for the freedom of movement of their forces in and through Greece and for their safety from attack.

That the entente was prepared to move with expedition in bringing about a change in the situation in Greece, indicated by the fact that sir Austen Chamberlain, secretary of state for the French Senator Jorj, bore plenary powers to act for entente, came the occupation by Italians in northeastern Greece, the Albanian frontier, of the town of Janina, and by other forces of Ellassona in northern Greece, situated at the foot of Mount Olympus and near the Gulf of Saloniki.

In the fighting zones the situation is comparatively calm, except on the front in France, along the line held by the French troops against the Germans in the region running eastward from Soissons into Champagne, and on several sectors of the Austro-Italian theater.

Sir Douglas Haig's troops have again smashed into the German front east and northeast of Messines and largely extended the gains previously made in this region. Nearly two miles of trenches were stormed and occupied by the British, and in addition the small village of Gaspard, directly east of Messines, was captured.

Berlin reports activity by the British cavalry east of Messines during Monday afternoon, but says the attack by the mounted men was repulsed and only remnants of them were able to return to their positions. The German artillery in the neighborhood of Lens and Ypres is bombarding the British line.

The artillery of the French and Germans is still active along the Chemin-Des-Dames and in Champagne. During Tuesday the French made raids on German trenches near the Butte De Mesnil and in the region of Haute Cheouchem, doing considerable damage to the positions and capturing prisoners.

Bad weather for the present has continued on Friday.

Early Chinese Had Compass.

As early as 2,634 years before Christ the compass was known in a crude way to the Chinese and it was used by them for purposes of navigation as early as the third century of the Christian era. But the policy of the rulers and the habits and character of the people conspired to render the Chinese indifferent sailors, and the compass did not become of great importance to them as it did to the seafaring nations of Europe.

HIS BELOVED WIFE

By MARIE A. GOLDEN.

"There isn't a thing you or anybody else could possibly say against Mel Satterlee. He's steady going and thrifty. He's got that big farm on his hands and money in the bank, and I don't see what more than that you want, Mary Ellen, or what you expect.
Land alive, when I was a girl we'd have thought half that was a catch."
Mary Ellen smiled, a little wistful smile, close lipped, unsatisfactory, altogether aggravating to anyone who tried to influence her one way or the other. Her mother stitched along now, on her sideboard scarf of tan linen, keeping one eye on Mary Ellen nursing a lame chick by the kitchen fire.
There had been four Taylor girls, every one of them clever and pretty, and all the other girls were now safely married off; but the youngest had been like the lame chick in her hands, delicate when young and brought up with extra tenderness and forbearance. She was twenty-five now, a ripe old age in Baldwick. She had gone to high school and later to normal school.

"How old is Mr. Satterlee, mother, do you suppose?" Mary Ellen's voice seemed to clear the conversational atmosphere when she spoke.

"Not a day over forty," answered Mrs. Taylor stoutly. "Fine-looking man, too, and you can't say he isn't, Mary Ellen."

"It isn't himself at all," said Mary Ellen. "It's his beloved wife, Ann." Every time I think of him I see her as I remember her when I was a little girl. Wasn't she dear, mother? I know I loved the columbines that grew in her garden. They were the prettiest anywhere around, and one day he mowed the whole lot down. Then there was one place in the lower meadow where arbutus grew around the gray rocks. He blasted them all out."

"But that's just a man's way about such things, child," sighed her mother.
"Flowers of wood and drawers of water," the Bible says they are, and I don't see what else the pesky things are for, but a woman must be patient. I remember Ann Satterlee, too—Ann Jennings she was before she married him.
Used to teach school for awhile over at Hampton Roads. Naturally curly hair and sang in the choir. Seemed as if Mel did—"

"Did what, mother?"
"Oh, just took it all out of her. Even as a boy he was set in his ways.
Course he took his father's place so young. They say he's worth $17,000 now, besides the two farms and all his timber."

Mary Ellen knelt down and pulled out from the chair beside the stove. The sick chick was dozing in its box. Out of doors the spring held full away over the land. She stood on the threshold for an instant, her eyes uplifted to the beauty of the distant hills, then took the short cut through the fields to the little village burial ground behind the church. It stood within its four square rock walls, guarded by pine and hemlock sentinels. Some of the old head-stones were of slate and half sunken in the earth, a century and a half old and more. Mary Ellen made her way carefully along the narrow paths until she came to the one spot she sought.
It was the last resting place of Ann, beloved wife of Melvin Satterlee.

Mary Ellen knelt down pulling out some stray weeds. Somehow she felt a yearning sympathy toward the woman whose life she remembered so well.
She felt as if Ann alone could understand now and shield her from Mel Satterlee's wooling, from money and prestige, his woodlots and two farms, and if she refused him she knew she could not remain at home. And besides there was Elwood—Elwood, only a year older than herself, who had never settled down, never made a success of anything he put his hand to.

They had gone to school together,
and she had always helped him to pass his examinations. Later, when she had gone ahead, he had written to her of all his trips away from home, of the long, joyous road jaunts he took by himself, youth's vagabond, with only hope for comrade. Now he had come into possession of the sawmill in the valley. Half the time when people came there he was away and the big wheel idle. Yet Mary Ellen loved him.
He knew every flower and plant in the hills, the call of every native bird and every favorite spot that she herself loved well.

All the arguments of her father ran through her head, all the obligations a child owed to its parents, as he expressed it. It was flying in the face of Providence to throw away the chance of being Mel Satterlee's second wife. But Mary Ellen wondered as she knelt in the myrtle and clover whether Ann in her last summing up would not have placed love and tenderness ahead of woodlots and farms.

All at once from the old winding up the hill she heard a call, a whistle that imitated the whippoorwill over in the old hemlock near the iron gate. It was Elwood, walking leisurely along up from the post office, bareheaded as usual, with his two Gordon setters at his heels. Mary Ellen rose and laid her hand half unconsciously on the granite shaft.

"Elwood," she called clearly, "wait for me!" Just for a moment she paused bending her head until her lips touched a white rose on a little bush at the head of Ann's grave.

"Not for the world," she whispered.
"I choose love first." And she went on to join Elwood down the road.

DIZZY SPELLS

Relieved After Taking Two Bottles
Of Cardui, Says Tennessee
Lady.

Whitwell, Tenn.—Mrs. G. P. Cartwright, of this place, writes: "About four years ago the dizzy spells got so bad that when I would start to walk
I would just pretty near fall. I wasn't just doing my work, but was very much run-down.

I told my husband I thought Cardui would help me, as a lady who lived next door to me had taken a great deal, and told me to try it. This was when we were living in Kentucky.

My husband got me a bottle and I took it according to directions. It helped me so much that he went back and got me another bottle. I got a whole lot better and just quit taking it. I got over the dizzy spells... I took no other medicine at that time nor since for this trouble. No, I've never regretted taking Cardui.

I felt just fine when I finished the second bottle.
Purely vegetable, mild and gentle in its action, Cardui, the woman's tonic, may be the very medicine you need. If you suffer from symptoms of female troubles, give Cardui a trial.

BOBBY EXPLAINS

By JOAN RUGBY.

Margaret returned to the cool, shady end of the veranda where she had been serving tea to some callers. They had now rolled away in their motots and she prepared to enjoy the remaining hour of the afternoon before Bob's arrival as she always did, in quiet retrospection and a sort of stocktaking of the day's events.

How she had worked and read and studied to be a fitting companion to her brilliant husband! She embraced every opportunity to keep herself informed and up to date so she should not appear wanting. The only trouble was that Bob never wanted to talk of these things to her. He always wanted to know what she had been doing all day, how she liked the people at the dance the night before, what she thought of how he was planning to take her to Overtown to spend Sunday, etc. It was all about her. He was trying, it seemed, to share in her life; not the other way around, as she would have had it.

This afternoon she had heard something, too. Mrs. Carr Harding had said casually between sips of tea that "Helen Harlowe was such a wonderful girl—so up to date and intelligent. Really," with a very sweet smile. "If you hadn't happened along, Mrs. Richmond, we all thought—well, Bobby did seem interested in her, you know."

Yes, she had known. She had decided, in fact, that Bobby was going to marry the other girl and was feeling very miserable about it, when he had suddenly declared that he loved her, Margaret.

Her hour of stocktaking today was not very profitable. Oh, why had Bobby married her at all when he was sure to tire of her?

Then she heard Bobby's car. She sprang up eagerly.

But when the roadster stopped at the foot of the steps she discovered that he was not alone. It was Helen Harlowe who was waving up at her, Helen that Bobby was so carefully handing out after the quick word of greeting for her. Bobby turned back to the car for a traveling bag as Helen mounted the steps.

"We've got company!" he called happily.

"You don't mind, do you, Margaret?" asked Helen.

"Why, no. I'm delighted, I'm sure!" said Margaret as naturally and as graciously as she could.

So the two went upstairs together while Bob put away the car and went to his own room to dress.

"Dinner is just about ready," said Margaret, "so don't bother too much. I'll go down and tell Jennie to lay another place."

"I'll hurry," said Helen, "but I always like to look nice for Bobby. He's so critical, don't you think?"

Again Margaret's heart contracted. But going downstairs she preached a little sermon to herself. "There's one thing I'm going to show Bobby, that I hope I'm broad enough not to be jealous."

So dinner went off happily and naturally.

Later they telephoned for Alex Brown and they all played bridge till midnight. Then Alex went home and Helen went to bed.

"Good night," she called back to them from the stairs. "Margaret, I've had a splendid time. The little trip has done me good. Don't get up in the morning for me. I have to be in town early and I'll let Bobby drive me in, if he will."

"It's so hot, let's sit out here a little while and cool off," begged Margaret, opening the porch door when they were closing the house for the night.

"All right, dear. Besides, I want to talk to you. I've something to tell you," answered Bobby.

So they sat down in the swing and swayed back and forth in the moonlight. Margaret would have been very happy—but for one thing.

"Dearie," said Bobby suddenly. "Does it all seem queer to you?"

"What, Bob?"

"Everything! That I've been nice to Helen and wound up by bringing her out here."

"No, dear. Why should it seem queer? She's only your friend—our friend. Why shouldn't you be nice to her?"

He was silent a minute and then reached for her hand. "It's no wonder I love you. I could never care for—anyone who thought things, Margaret. The longer I am married to you the more I discover how truly sterling you are. You were dear and lovely to Helen this evening and you'll never be sorry. I brought her out here to get her away from trouble. She hasn't an idea yet, but the worst will be over by tomorrow."

"It's been coming for a long time and I've known it. I've done what I could, but it wasn't possible to do much. It's a financial crash. Her father's business for the bank failure and—well, he's gone away. The family's traveling and she just happened to be in town for a couple of days. If she'd stayed there last night she'd have had the whole thing to bear alone."

"Oh, Bobby, I'm so sorry and so glad," cried Margaret.

"Glad?" in surprise. "I mean," hastily, "glad you brought her here. And I'll make her stay if I can."

The Gordian Knot

As the old legend goes, the father of the Greek King Midas, once king of Phrygia, was originally a poor peasant. The people of Phrygia being much disturbed, an oracle had informed them that a wagon would bring them a king who would put an end to all their troubles. Not long after this saying, Gordius, Midas' father, suddenly arrived in the midst of an assembly of the people, riding in his wagon. At once, to the great surprise of Gordius, they made him king. In his gratitude Gordius dedicates the wagon to the god Zeus, and it was placed in the acropolis at Gordium. The pole of the wagon was tied to the yoke by a knot of bark, and a second oracle declared that whoever untied the knot should reign over all Asia. It was Alexander who untied the knot by cutting it with his sword, thus assuming himself to be the man referred to by the oracle.

Trying To Wheedle.

Petrograd reports a wireless message sent to the Russian armies by the German commander-in-chief on the eastern front in an attempt to inveigle them into an armistice and secret negotiations with the German leaders. The Council of Soldiers and Workmen gave out this information accompanied by a denunciation of the German effort to induce the Russians to play their allies false.

5,000,000 Corns Lifted Right Off!

Try 3 Drops of Magia "Geta-It!"
There's a wonderful difference between getting rid of a corn now and the way they used to try to get rid of it only four or five years ago. "Geta-It!" has revolutionized corn history. It's the only corn remedy.

"See? Just 3 Drops of 'Geta-It!' Now Tomorrow I'll Just Feel That Corn Right Off--and It's Gone!"

today that acts on the new principle, not only of shriveling up the corn, but of loosening the corn off--so loose that you can lift it right off with your fingers. Put 3 drops of "Geta-It!" on that corn or callus tonight. That's all. The corn is doomed sure as sunrise. No pain, or trouble, or soreness. You do away once and for all with toe-bundling bandages, toe-eating salves and irresponsible "what-nots." Try it--get surprised and lose a corn. "Geta-It!" is sold everywhere. 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Hopkinsville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by L. L. ELGIN.

DR. H. HOLT
THIS WEEK

Spoke On Wednesday Night, Representing League to Enforce Peace.

Dr. Hamilton Holt of New York, editor, publicist, and one of the leaders of the League of Nations movement, is making a speaking tour through Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Kentucky. His first address was delivered at the commencement oration at the closing exercises of Randolph-Macon College.

Dr. Holt is one of the organizers and a member of the Executive committee of the League to Enforce Peace, of which ex-President Taft is President. Much of his time of late has been devoted to this organization. Last spring he delivered a series of addresses in the Northwest which resulted in the organization of several state branches of the League.

Dr. Holt maintains that the aim of those on both sides of the Atlantic who believe the formation of an international league is the only practical way to prevent future wars has become the real purpose of the present war. "Before such a league becomes possible, however, German autocracy must be crushed and Democracy must prevail," he said.

"The League to Enforce Peace is devoting all its energies," through 35,000 members in all parts of the country, to keeping this high purpose before the people as the most effective spur to patriotic enthusiasm.

"The League believes that winning the war is the shortest route toward the realization of this ideal, and is opposed to any movement that advocates peace except upon those terms."

KENTUCKY NEGRO.

J. D. M. Russell, negro, for the past 17 years, principal of the Richmond, Ky., colored high school, has been appointed by President Wilson as postmaster of Wilberforce, O. Russell has been a lifelong Democrat. When Senator Pomerene, of Ohio, was asked for a recommendation for postmaster of Wilberforce, which is a colored college town, he was unable to find a negro citizen there of Democratic persuasion who was qualified for the place. Russell, however, owns a track of land in Wilberforce. Senator Beckham, of Kentucky, was familiar with the negro educator and his holdings in Ohio and informed his Buckeye colleague of the facts with the result that the appointment was tendered Russell and he has accepted. The place pays $1,800 a year.

Fire at Fordsville.

The Highest Greatness.

There are different orders of greatness. Among these the first rank is unquestionably due to moral greatness, or magnanimity; to that sublime energy, by which the soul, smitten with the love of virtue, binds itself indissolubly, for life and death, to truth and duty; espouses as its own the interests of human nature; scorning all meanness and defies all peril; hears in its own conscience a voice louder than thunders; withstands all the powers of the universe, which would sever it from the cause of freedom and religion; reposes an unfaltering trust in God in the darkest hour, and is ever "ready to be offered up" on the altar of its country or of mankind.—William Ellery Channing.

Proud of Father.

"Yes," said the young wife, proudly, "father always gives something expensive when he makes presents." "So I discovered when he gave you away," rejoined the young husband. And with a large, open-faced sigh he continued to audit the monthly bills of his better half.—Stray Stories.

America's Fighting Forces.

The United States marine corps are the soldiers of the sea. Kipling refers to the marine as "sailor and soldier, too"—an apt description. The marine does not man the ship in the sense of sailing it. His business is to fight on sea or land, and, in each instance, as a regiment of the army might do were it temporarily detached to serve aboard a battleship. The term of enlistment is for four years. This is the term of enlistment, also for the navy. No recruit can enlist for a shorter period unless the president should authorize. Fundamentally, the difference between the regular army and the National Guard lies in the fact that the former is under the command of the president while the latter, until it is taken into the federal service, is under command of the governors of the respective states. When the National Guard is taken into the federal service, it becomes, to all intents and purposes, a portion of the federal army and is subject to the president's orders and may be employed as the president sees fit, either at home or abroad, precisely as he would employ the regular army.

Earliest of English Letters.

The earliest English letters of which there appears to be any historic evidence is the charming note written by Matilda, wife of Henry I, to Archbishop Anselm, in which she styles him her "worthy reverend lord," herself "the lowest of the handmaidens of his holiness." Four centuries later another notable letter was written by an English queen, the tender appeal of Anne Boleyn "from her dolorful prison in the Tower" to Henry VIII.

Purest Irish Blood.

The purest Irish blood is not to be found in Galway proper, for the town was long held by the English, and centuries ago it did an immense trade with Spain that resulted in mixed marriages, producing sundry heads of black hair and black eyes. But across the little river, by the bay, is a fishers' colony where the oldest Irish blood is still pure. This little group have married strictly among themselves, and their stock is said to go back to Irish natives who even antedated the Irish Celts. They are still recognizable as a slightly different type going about the streets of Galway selling their fish, as they and their fathers before them have done for centuries.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

IN 1917

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

The value and need of a newspaper in the household was never greater than at the present time. The great war in Europe is now half way into its third year, and, whether peace be at hand or yet be far off, it and the events to follow it are sure to be of absorbing interest for many a month to come.

These are world-shaking affairs, in which the United States, willing or unwilling, is compelled to take a part. No intelligent person can ignore such issues.

DON'T DELAY.

Some Hopkinsville People Have Have Learned that Neglect is Dangerous.

The slightest symptom of kidney trouble is far too serious to be overlooked. It's the small, neglected troubles that so often lead to serious kidney ailments. That pain in the "small" of your back; that urinary irregularity; that weak, weary, worn-out feeling, may be nature's warning of kidney weakness. Why risk your life by neglecting these symptoms? Reach the cause of the trouble while there is time—begin treating your kidneys at once with a tried and proved kidney remedy. No need to experiment—Doan's Kidney Pills have been successfully used in thousands of cases of kidney trouble for over 30 years. Doan's Kidney Pills are used and recommended throughout the civilized world. Endorsed at home Read Hopkinsville testimony.

J. D. O'Daniel, shoemaker, 603 O'Neal Ave., Hopkinsville, says: "I had a dull headache and a soreness across the small of my back. I felt languid and my kidneys acted irregularly. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Elgin's Drug Store and they soon strengthened my back and put my kidneys in good shape." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. O'Daniel had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

First Long-Range Guns.

American ships of war were the first to carry long-ranged guns. Our "long toms" that figured in the War of 1812 far outranged any guns mounted on British or French ships, and small American vessels were able to destroy frigates and check pursuit while keeping out of range of their adversaries' guns. The most notable change in naval construction recorded in history followed the launching of the Monitor, which showed the way to the heavily-armed dreadnaught with its big-gun turrets as we see it today.

Shaved With Glass.

Shaving was practiced in the new world before it was discovered by Europeans, and the Mexican barbers shaved their customers with flakes of volcanic glass, each piece as it lost its edge being flung away and a new one applied. A curious instance of political significance in the mode of shaving may be remembered by some people. It was after the downfall of Napoleon III, when the French army ceased to be imperial and became republican, that a general order was issued that all military chins were to be shaved, and forthwith the familiar characteristic "imperial" disappeared from 500,000 chins.

ADAPTABLE GUN PEDESTAL.

The nation-wide discussion of measures for increasing our defenses on sea gives added interest to a machine gun pedestal for the navy, manufactured by a Buffalo concern. This mounting is designed to be fastened to the deck of a coast cutter, or harbor-patrol boat, etc. It consists of a base with gun mounting, and is so constructed that a complete circle can be described in the operation of the gun regardless of the angle at which it is placed. The firing piece can be elevated to practically 90 degrees or pointed lower than horizontal.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

"Not One Cent for Tribute."

Charles Cotesworth Pinckney first used the phrase, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute." Sent as peace envoy to France in 1797, he was told that only a payment of money, to be called a "loan," would make the directory of France cease violating American rights on the sea. "Why be it, then," he replied. "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute." A little later Napoleon Bonaparte came into power as first consul of France, and, seeing the folly of provoking war with America, he treated this country with fairness. War, which had really begun, quickly ceased. Pinckney's phrase was used again by Captain Decatur in his dealings with Algeria, a country which, early in the nineteenth century, tried to make American ships pay for the privilege of sailing the Mediterranean sea unmolested.

Ohio's "Fire Lands."

The term "fire lands" was applied to a tract of country in northern Ohio. After the Revolutionary war when Connecticut had ceded to the United States her undetermined land possessions in the West, she reserved a tract embracing 500,000 acres, now included in the northeastern portion of Ohio, to do as she pleased with. The land so reserved was called the Western reserve, or Connecticut reserve. The state of Connecticut subsequently sold it on easy terms to certain of her citizens who had suffered at the hands of the British during the war. Because they had thus suffered, the lands parceled out to them were called "sufferers' land," and as most of the sufferers were made such by fires, the lands were also called "fire lands." The latter designation outlived the former and was current in the history of Ohio for many years. The fire lands are now included in the counties of Huron and Erie.

The Koran was given to his followers by the prophet of Mohammed as the law revealed to him through the angel Gabriel. No other man contributed to its form or substance. The limited range of the knowledge and experience of and suggestions to its author necessarily limited its scope to rules adapted to the relatively simple conditions of the people with whom he was familiar. THE FLAG.

BY ARTHUR MACY.

Here comes the flag.

Hail it!

Who dares to drag

Or trail it?

Give it hurrahs—

Three for the stars,

Three for the bars.

Uncover your head to it!

The soldiers who tread it

Shout at the sight of it,

The justice and right of it,

The unsullied white of it,

The blue and red of it

And tyranny's dread of it!

Here comes the flag!

Cheer it!

Valley and crag

Shall hear it.

Fathers shall bless it,

Children caress it

And shall maintain it.

No one shall stain it.

Cheers for the sailors that fought on the wave for it.

Cheers for the soldiers that always were brave for it.

Tears for the men that went down to the grave for it.

Here comes the flag!

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

The sudden going home of Mrs. Camilla T. Wall caused a shock in the community and brought genuine grief to many homes and hearts. Her untiring zeal for the Master's work was manifested by her teaching in the Bible school and filling her place in the sanctuary the last Sabbath she spent on earth. Therefore, in her death be it—

Resolved, 1 That this society has lost a zealous, efficient and highly esteemed member.

2. That her devotion to the cause of world-wide missions is worthy of constant emulation.

3. That her faithful and persistent efforts to enlist the sympathy and active co-operation of others in the evangelization of the world merits the highest commendation.

4. That each of the members of this society recognize in her home going God's call to a higher, better and more efficient service.

5. That these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, a copy sent to the bereaved family and that they also be published in the New Era and the Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

MARRIAGES.

Curtis-Robinson

One of the biggest surprises of the year was the announcement of the wedding of Mr. Edward Curtis and Miss Karlene Robinson. The wedding took place some time past. At the class day exercises of the High School it was thought quite a joke when in the class prophesy Miss Robinson was referred to as Mrs. Curtis. But the joke was on the class, for at the time she was in reality Mrs. Curtis. Mr. Curtis is one of the best known and most enterprising young men in the city. Mrs. Curtis was a member of this year's graduating class at the local High school and is one of the city's most attractive young ladies. The happy couple will make their home with the groom's parents on east 19th street.

Phelps-Brown.

The many friends of Mrs. Zenobia Brown, were surprised last Saturday when her marriage to Mr. E. B. Phelps, of Eminence, Kansas, was made known. It was known by her closest friends that the deepest attachment existed between the two, but the wedding came as a pleasant surprise. Mrs. Brown, who for the past several years has been cashier in the office of the Campbell Insurance Agency, is one of the best known business women in the city. The groom is a prosperous rancher of near Eminence, Kansas.

Winfree-Robinson.

Cards have been received in this city announcing the marriage of Miss Essa Mae Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Robinson, of San Francisco, Cal., to Mr. Forest Fallon Winfree. Mr. Winfree is a brother of Mr. Charles Winfree, of this city, and has a host of friends here. The wedding took place Sunday, June 6.

OPPOSED TO ANNEXATION

Britain's Aims Laid Down in Official Paper.

London, June 13.—In reply to the Russian government's request for a statement of the British war aims, Great Britain has forwarded to Petrograd a note in which it expressed hearty acceptance and approval of the principles which President Wilson laid down in his historic message to Congress. The British government believes, broadly speaking, that the agreements made from time to time with Britain's allies are conformable to these standards.

The purpose of Great Britain at the outset, says the note, was to defend the existence of the country and enforce respect for international agreements. Since then there has been added that "of liberating populations oppressed by alien tyranny." The note bespeaks only the liberation of Poland by Russia, but of that section of Poland within the domination of the Germanic empires.

BELIEVE REGISTRATION WILL EXCEED ESTIMATE

More Than 7,700,000 Enrolled, With Eleven States Yet to Report.

Washington, June 13.—War registration returns in tonight from thirty-seven States indicated that when all States have reported the total enrolled will exceed census estimates of eligibles, deducting the 60,000 men now in military and naval service not required to register.

The Provost Marshal General's office estimated that total registration in the United States will be nearly 9,500,000, slightly more than 90 per cent of the census estimate of 10,298,000 eligibles between the ages of 21 and 30 inclusive. Deductions indicated by the War Department, however, would reduce this census estimate about 12 per cent, or to a little more than 9,000,000.

With eleven more States to report, War Department records showed tonight that 7,773,467 for the States reported. Of those registered 5,468,073 were white, 847,852 were colored, 807,868 were aliens and 94,311 were alien enemies. Indicated possible exemptions were 4,111,453.

Some of the States not yet reported will show excesses over their census estimates, according to incomplete tabulations and will help to raise the aggregate percentage.

Michigan today jumped into first place among the States in proportion of estimated eligibles actually registered, with 113.6 per cent.

Music Recital.

Tuesday night at the Christian church the music pupils of Miss Elizabeth Nourse gave their recital to one of the largest crowds that ever attended a music recital in this city. The Sunday school auditorium was filled to capacity.

The numbers were rendered in faultless style and highly appreciated by the audience. The pupils received many gifts from their friends and admirers and the floral offering rivaled that of the High School graduation.

Flag Exercises.

Flag exercises will be held at Elks home Thursday, June 14th. Jas. Breathitt, Jr., will deliver tribute to the Flag. Hopkinsville Lodge was one of the first to have a flag raising when the military flag was unfurled a few weeks ago. The exercises will be held at the Elks home at 5 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

INJUNCTION SUIT FILED

To Stop the Improvement Of The Gracey Route To Cadiz.

James Breathitt, Jr., went to Cadiz Monday and filed a suit in the name of C. R. Wadlington and others, praying for an injunction to prevent the Gracey road now being improved and designated as the official inter-county seat road between Cadiz and Hopkinsville.

There has been much controversy between the people along the Gracey and the Caledonia roads. Mr. Breathitt will probably file suit in this county seeking to have the Caledonia road designated as the official route in this county. It has been planned to improve both roads in Christian county.
